An Executive Coach Rewrites Steve Harvey's Shocking Staff Memo

The Coaching Factory's Chelsea C. Hayes, who trains millennials and executives in workplace conduct, imagines a gentler tone in this proposed letter.

Kindness goes a long way, according to a Los Angeles-based executive coach.

The Coaching Factory's Chelsea C. Hayes — an Northwestern University grad who trains millennials in workplace conduct and helps executives fine-tune their management skills — has rewritten Steve Harvey's blistering staff memo in a gentler tone in an attempt to accomplish his same goals.

Harvey confirmed on Thursday that he wrote the letter, first published by Chicago media reporter Robert Feder, to cut down the unscheduled meetings with staffers at his Chicago-based talk show Steve Harvey.

ABOUT CHELSEA

Chelsea C. Hayes, SPHR is the CEO & Principal Consultant of The Coaching Factory LLC. Based out of Los Angeles, she leads The Coaching Factory, an innovation consulting firm providing solutions in Executive Coaching, Human Resources & Training & Development.

Chelsea holds a Master's Degree in Corporate Communication from Northwestern University. Prior to launching The Coaching Factory, Chelsea was the Director of Human Resources for the Los Angeles Sparks. Prior to moving to LA, she held several roles at General Electric (GE) in corporate diversity, sales, and HR. Her complex roles provided HR support in the areas of executive leadership, talent development, new hire experience, career navigation and coaching.

Chelsea earned two Bachelor's Degrees from Purdue University in Public Health Promotion & Public Relations after beginning college at the age of sixteen. As she emerged as a leader on campus and in her community, she launched a successful global campaign to serve as the National 2nd Vice President of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority Inc., the world's largest non-profit public service sorority. For a three year term, she focused on overseeing, retaining, and growing the Sorority's 250,000+ initiated members. She is currently a member of the Los Angeles Alumnae Chapter.

Chelsea is certified as a Senior Professional in Human Resources (SPHR) by the HR Certification Institute and her work has been featured in The Hollywood Reporter. Chelsea was named 1 of 2 of Purdue University's Outstanding Alumni under 35 in 2017 and is the Vice President of the College of Liberal Arts Alumni Board of Directors. In her spare time, you can find her at Equinox, on a plane or glued to FaceTime with her niece and nephew, Chyla & Croix.

“Chelsea C. Hayes is a powerhouse in the world of executive coaching. Her guidance and expertise is guaranteed to take you to the next level. The Coaching Factory is a MUST experience”

-Traci Lynn Blackwell, SVP Current Programs, The CW Network
